Special town meeting should be lively

By Arlene Surprenant

The special town meeting on March 18 promises to be anything but dull. Already, several of the eight articles on the warrant are stirring up considerable interest and controversy.

Articles Seven and Eight deal with the plot of land by Silver Lake on Main Street slated for a two and a half story office building. For the past three weeks, selectmen have been seeking a way to take the land for municipal purposes or open land use.

Article Seven asks town residents to vote to rezone the property from Neighborhood Business (NB) and Residence 10 (R-10) to Residence 60 (R-60). Article Eight asks the town to vote to take that same parcel by eminent domain or purchase. It also gives the town of Wilmington the authority to apply for grants from the commonwealth and the federal government.

At Monday night's board of selectmen's meeting, Gerald O'Reilly applauded the board for their attempt to protect the environment of Silver Lake. He asked that once they take the land they do something with it right away. He also filed an article for the annual town meeting (the warrant for which closes Friday, February 15) to maintain and beautify the property once the town owns it.

It was noted the property's present owner has already filed for a building permit but cannot obtain it until after the special town meeting.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale suggested the board make a formal offer to the owner for the property to show that they are willing to negotiate for a "reasonable price."

Two rezoning articles are creating a furor among interested citizens.

Article Three seeks to rezone a parcel of land on Broad Street from Residence - 20 (R-20) to Planned Residential Development (PRD). If passed, the article would allow owner Joseph Langone to build the town's first condominiums. At present, abutters and neighbors are holding coffee hours and meetings to discuss and weigh the impact of such units on traffic, schools and neighboring property and to possibly take some action of their own.

Article Six asks the town to rezone land on Route 62 bordering Middlesex Avenue and Route 93 from R-20 to Industrial Park (IP) use. If successful, developer Paul Butt will be able to build another first — a three story, 136 room motel with an accompanying office building for professional and business use. The motel is planned for use primarily by travelers connected with local industry.

Critics point out that the land in question is zoned for homes and contains considerable wetlands.

Article One seeks to appropriate, by transfer, money from the town's Free Cash account to the Blue Cross - Blue Shield account to meet a current year liability. The liability came about through increased medical costs incurred by town employees.

Article Two asks the town to authorize the transfer of control of the town forest to the Conservation Commission. It also seeks to authorize construction and maintenance of a water storage tank in a location determined by the town engineer and to allow the selectmen to seek grant aid from the commonwealth and the federal government. Submitted by State Representative James Miceli, it is considered one step in the preservation of some town owned land for purposes other than development.

Article Four, submitted by the Planning Board, seeks to take auto dealerships out of the General Business zone and place them in the High Density zone. Presently gas stations and restaurants require High Density zoning. This article, if successful, will require dealership owners to obtain town meeting approval before they can make major changes on their property.

Article Five would allow Mary DelNinno a chance to buy back property by Silver Lake once owned by her relatives prior to 1970. If granted, the property shall become part of DelNinno's "contiguous premises" and shall not be divided or subdivided.

Police chief asks fincom for additional funds

by Arlene Surprenant

Police Chief Bobby Stewart submitted his budget estimates for the Wilmington Police Department for fiscal 1986 at Tuesday night's Finance Committee meeting.

The accounts, said Stewart, represent the "absolute minimum needed to provide adequate police services to the community."

The total request for the department's expense accounts, with warrant articles eliminated, represents an increase of $124,315 over the appropriations and transfers for FY 1985.

Several differences were obvious between Stewart's budget estimates and the town manager's recommended budget.

One glaring difference was the cost of a requested computer system in the capital outlay account. In a recent town computerization study, Stewart said, the police department was listed as having the second greatest priority for computerization. Therefore, Stewart requested $44,600 for a multi-user computer system, while Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski allowed $10,000 in his recommended budget.

Finance Committee Chairman Dennis Volpe pointed out that it has been their approach in the past to fund things in increments. He asked Stewart what he would consider to be the minimum amount he would need for a computer system without restricting his growth in future years.

Stewart explained that a minimum of $18,000 would obtain a software computer package from Danvers which would be a "real asset" to his department. Such a system, he said, would reduce duplication of work, lessen the work load, and be a "time saver" by instantly recalling information needed on the job.

Another difference between the two proposed budgets is the need for two additional patrolmen to help provide a "safe, working environment," Stewart said. Stewart has asked Stapczynski to increase the appropriation for the patrolmen salary account by $40,550 to fund the two additional positions.

Stewart also requested that the clerk's salary account be increased by one-half the salary for a permanent clerk typist. This would restore the department's clerical staff to its pre-1979 level, something Stapczynski said he is not prepared to do at this time.

There was a wide disparity in vacation fill-in costs with Stewart requesting $65,803 and Stapczynski recommending $52,642. The large increase over last year's appropriation was necessitated by salary ad-

High school musicians

The Wilmington High School Performing Arts Revue is visiting other Wilmington schools this week, to give younger students an idea of what music education can produce. On Tuesday, the high school jazz band, chorus and dancers performed at the Shawheen School. Both the jazz band (above) and the chorus (below) were impressive.

Palmer reports on DPW work

by Arlene Surprenant

Though "there's not enough money to do everything we want to do," Department of Public Works (DPW) Superintendent Bob Palmer told selectmen Monday night his department has made some strides.

In a department update, Palmer explained that in the past year they've installed and extended the drainage system on various streets and, "as far as I know," resolved 90 percent of the drainage problem by King Street.

In the grounds division, they've relocated baseball and soccer fields at the North Intermediate, created a new baseball field at the Woburn Street School and enlarged parking lots at the Town Hall and the Wildwood School, among other things.

This year, his department expects to finish the ballfields at the Woburn Street School, construct ballfields at the two intermediate schools, resurface parking lots, and attend to tennis court repairs at a cost of $33,000 each court.

They will also install more street lights, continue drainage work, begin a new section in the cemetery, and keep up proper maintenance of roads so small problems don't become big ones.

Palmer pointed out that snow and ice control is a "very expensive proposition." Last week's snow alone cost the town $28,000, including payment to town employees and contractors.

However, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski pointed out that since we've been "blessed" with little snow this year, this allowed Palmer to get other jobs done.

Bob Cain asked if Palmer could come up with some ideas for a park by Silver Lake. They would like to have plans ready in case they need to act quickly. Palmer said he had already "worked something up" which included basketball courts and a children's play area.

In other business, a representative from General Electric proposed using the Whitefield School area for an industrial league ballfield.

He was told that since strict rules may have to be enforced and the school is in a residential area, he might want to seek land off Ballardvale Street belonging to the Sons of Italy or land owned by the Shriners near the Shriners Auditorium on Fordham Road.

Fleming to address Communion Breakfast

Paul Fleming, principal of Wilmington High School, will be the guest speaker at a Communion Breakfast hosted by the Wilmington United Methodist Church. The Lenten focus will be on Sunday, February 24, with the sacrament of Communion at 7 a.m., the breakfast at 7:45 and Mr. Fleming's address at 8:15. The community is cordially invited to attend any or all of the celebration. Tickets, which are $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12, will be for sale until February 20; note, these are to cover expenses for the breakfast only. The church is located at 87 Church St. (Route 62) and has access for handicapped persons.

Mr. Fleming, who arrived in the Wilmington community in June 1984 and commenced his duties in July is a native New Englander, born in Lawrence. Education, goal setting, and excellent in life's realities have always been guidelines for Mr. Fleming, whose parents were both educators. His coaching background in the sports of basketball and cross country running were important aspects of youth motivation to this man, the new leader and director of Wilmington's youth at the high school level. In Mr. Fleming's words the past 24 years have been "exciting ones," as his vocational training prepared him for the Wilmington challenge.

Paul Fleming

Mr. Fleming will discuss the topic of "Service..." in his Communion Breakfast message, and plans to elaborate on the possibilities to children, youth, and one's fellow man. The morning of February 24 promises to be one of varied enrichment at the Wilmington United Methodist Church. Further information may be obtained by calling the church office, 658-4519.

Jacqueline Gervais, Lowell area director for the Department of Social Services (DSS), has launched a foster family recruitment campaign with a Valentine theme - a home with love. The campaign's symbol is a simple drawing of a house with a heart inside.

Gervais was joined by Robert Audet, chairman of the Area Citizen's Advisory Board, in pointing out that approximately 20 foster families are needed in the area right now.

"Sometimes we need an emergency foster home where a child may stay for a few days, or a year, or more," Audet said. "It is easy to explore the possibility of becoming a foster parent," Gervais added. "Social workers and experienced foster parents are available to help potential foster parents decide whether they wish to take the step. There are informal discussions, workshops, and training sessions in the initial stages and plenty of backup once they make a decision," explained Gervais.

The recruitment campaign includes special public-service announcements on radio and cable television, the distribution of flyers and bookmarks by local volunteer groups, and speaking engagements.

The DSS staff member coordinating the local campaign is Joan Douglas, foster home recruiter.

"People think they need a separate room and bath in order to welcome a foster child into their home, and that is usually not the case. You can be married or single, you can certainly have children, and can either own or rent your house or apartment," she said.

For further foster parenting information, call Joan Douglas 452-8970.

The Department of Social Services was established by the legislature in 1980 to provide community-based services to children, families and disabled people living in Massachusetts.

The toll-free DSS 24-hour Child Abuse Hotline is 1-800-792-5200.

ice houses

Grandpa Chester Howe took this picture of Leland (left) and Chester Howe in 1927. The ice house happens to be in the background, with Main Street and Glen Road being behind the ice house.

Note the "elevator" by which ice was hoisted into the buildings. Behind the boys a man and horse are "scoring" the ice — marking and cutting into the floes of ice that were to be stored in the ice houses.

Plans filed for office building at Silver Lake

Plans for the proposed office building overlooking Silver Lake were filed last week, on Thursday, at the office of the Wilmington Building Inspector.

The plans call for 3,980 square feet, on the first and again on the second story, and a mezzanine of 1138 feet.

If the town meeting votes in favor of the rezoning the plans will still be invalid.

It may be presumed that a legal fight would then ensue, seeking damages. The owner of record is Webster T. Grace of 511 South Main Street, Andover, MA. Mr. Grace has owned the property since August 12, 1965.

An informal survey, minor in scope, shows that Wilmington voters are about evenly divided, in opinion as to whether or not the property should be rezoned. Many predict a subsequent legal battle.

Walter L. Hale, a Wilmington resident for many years, owned ice houses on the lot of land for over 20 years. He conducted an ice business there, and a coal business from in back of his home on Clark Street, now the home of Agnes Fagan.

Three ice houses stood on the lot of land nearest to Glen Road. Hale had the first ice houses constructed about 1910. The foundations, still in place, were laid by Peter Neilson.

Three times those ice houses were burned. They were constructed with wood, with a lot of sawdust to provide insulation, and the fires were spectacular. It was better than a Fourth of July fireworks. The fires could be seen for miles.

The second set of fires, about 1923, were incendiary. Possibly it was the same thing with the other fires.

Walter Hale borrowed $2,000 each time from Christian Neilson, to build anew. In each instance he paid back promptly, in a couple of years.

Those ice houses provided some winter employment for the farmers who had nothing to do. Farmers and their sons would be hired, for a week or so, at 25 cents an hour. Christian and Peter Neilson were supervisors, and got 50 cents an hour.

An old fashioned gasoline engine, with a loud bang, bang, bang provided the power for lifting the ice into the ice houses. The noise was not as bad in subsequent years.

In the summer, too, there was employment. Young men would peddle the ice, driving ice wagons pulled by two horses all over Wilmington and South Tewksbury. Pieces of ice ranged in price from 10 cents to 40 cents, the larger size just filling the ice compartment of the family style refrigerator of that day.

Broadly speaking those employees were a jolly bunch. They called Walter Hale "Deacon" and he didn't like it. He would protest, but it didn't do any good. The name calling, if one can call it that, persisted to the end. That was about 1933.

At that time people were buying electric refrigerators. When the ice houses burned down Walter did not build them again.

The land was subsequently sold to Ten Hills Ice Company of Medford, but that firm never tried to build new ice houses.

St. Robert's Church presents 'A Peasant of El Salvador'

The imaginative and exciting play "A Peasant of El Salvador" will have a single performance in this area on Wednesday, February 27, 1985 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Robert's in Andover.

This moving drama, created by and performed by Gould and Stearns focuses upon the lives of one peasant family in El Salvador.

The playwright, Peter Gould, plays the central character, an engaging hill farmer trying to maintain the life he has always known, a life that is rooted in his land, his faith, and his family. The audience sees recent events in El Salvador through this gentle old man's eyes.

Stephen Stearns portrays a wide variety of characters, including a son, a neighbor, a land reform officer, a government soldier, a plantation foreman and the late Archbishop Oscar Romero.

The story is told with humor and sensitivity, interspersed with mime and music.

Gould wrote the play to honor Archbishop Romero, who was slain on Palm Sunday 1980 in El Salvador's capital city, San Salvador.

Tickets will be available at the door for $4 for adults and $2.50 students. For further information call Beth, 851-9816.

Architectural barriers take on a new meaning

by Larz F. Neilson

The ad in the help wanted pages was very tempting — a job paying about $50,000, for someone with my qualifications. It was almost too good to be true, but I sent in my resume. A reply letter came with an appointment for an interview.

As I drove to the interview, my thoughts alternated between dreams of how much I would like the job, to wondering how many other people would apply.

The location was distant, out in the country (where I'd love to be) in a nice area with affordable housing and adequate services.

The first thing I noticed as I drove into the parking lot was that nearly all the parking spaces were reserved for handicapped persons. Except for five parking spaces, every space had a sign with a warning of a $50 fine for anyone parking there without the proper permit.

A deep gully separated the building from the parking lot — you could call it a moat. The ramp crossing the moat was two narrow tracks, about two feet apart. As I stood there wondering how anyone was supposed to walk across those tracks, a man in a wheelchair emerged from the building. He glided across the ramp with very little effort.

I looked at the ramp, feeling a bit helpless, wondering how I was going to get to my interview for that $50,000 job. While I was standing there, two more people came up in wheelchairs. They crossed the gully with no problem. At first I was tempted to ask one of them for a ride, but I thought better of it and said nothing.

Finally, I set my jaw, determined to cross the gully. I managed to hold my balance until I was about two-thirds of the way across. I landed in the gully, my new shoes submerged in six inches of water.

Determined to have that interview and the $50,000 job, I squished my way to the front door. Now what is this? The door is not even five feet high. As I stood there looking at it, it opened, and two people in wheelchairs came out. They smiled at me.

Ducking, and feeling very much like a duck, I waddled through the door, my shoes squishing with every step.

The skylit lobby was warm and attractive, one of the most attractive offices I had ever been in. I introduced myself to the receptionist, who said that I would have to wait a few minutes.

I turned, ready to sit down for my wait — but there were no chairs, other than a wheelchair occupied by a woman. I asked the receptionist if there were any chairs. "Most people bring their own, if you know what I mean," she replied. "I'll see if I can find you one. As she backed up from her desk, I realized that she, too, was in a wheelchair. She left the room, and returned in a minute with an office chair. I sat down.

About ten minutes later, a woman in a wheelchair came into the lobby and called my name. I began to follow her, ducking for every doorway. A minute later, she showed me into an office, where there was another woman in a wheelchair. Again, there were no chairs in the office.

"Mrs. Williams, this is Mr. Neilson," said the woman who had escorted me. As they spoke, I felt out of place, since it was difficult to maintain eye contact. They were sitting, I was standing.

"Could you bring Mr. Neilson a chair," said Mrs. Williams. The other woman left, and returned with one.

"Ours is unique company," said Mrs. Williams, "and I wouldn't have asked you for the interview if your qualifications hadn't met our needs so well."

I agreed as to the uniqueness, and continued the discussion on the nature of the job. But I couldn't take my mind off the building. Finally, I had to ask, "Why is everything in the building designed only for people in wheelchairs?"

"Oversight, pure oversight," she replied. "Our boss, who you'll meet soon, is in a wheelchair, and when he had the building designed, he happened to choose an architect who was also in a wheelchair. It never occurred to them to make the place accessible to standees."

"Don't you feel that is some kind of discrimination?" I asked.

"No more than any of us experience elsewhere," she replied. "Besides, we've agreed with the state to make the building accessible to standees — as soon as they make other facilities accessible to wheelchairs."

I was tempted to tell her that I didn't want the job, but the $50,000 salary danced in front of my eyes.

"Well, how would I get into the building every day?" I asked.

"Oh, that's easy. We have a special entrance for people who walk. You'd just come in through the boiler room."

"The boiler room? What am I — a second class citizen? Why don't you build a foot-bridge across the moat?" I asked.

"Well, other people have asked that, too. Mr. Arthur is talking about it, but the plans haven't been completed yet. Maybe next year."

"I'm sure I could design and build that in just three days," I said.

"We weren't talking about you as a carpenter, were we? I thought you were a writer," said Mrs. Williams.

I thought about the possibility of buying a wheelchair, just for work. But I rejected the idea. I didn't want to spend my day in a wheelchair. But I sure did want that $50,000 job. Would I spend my day in a wheelchair, or not?

Finally I woke up to how lucky I was to have a choice.

The writer has no ambition to leave for a hypothetical $50,000 job. He does, however, have an ambition to make buildings accessible to handicapped persons.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Kudos for your fine article on Scouting in the Town Crier. As is sometimes the case, space does not permit mentioning all who helped out in so many ways. I would like to add a few names.

Win Polsey of Chestnut Street was the guiding force behind Pack 56 in the early 60's and, with a registration of 125, it was he who had to attend two pack meetings a month and oversee a committee of 10, not to mention 12 den mothers. (Thanks Florence!). He was ably assisted by Ray York and the late George T.H. Smith.

It was the late Father Leahy who wanted St. Dorothy's to sponsor a Cub Pack after Troop 58 was re-activated and George Peters of Fairmeadow Road was the first Cubmaster assisted by Lou Perry, Lou Theriault, Bob Patton and Jim Duval to name a few.

One of Foster Balser's greatest deeds was to secure Wilmington Jr. Camp Inc. (a.k.a. Camp 40 Acres) for the camping needs of youth groups. Not to be forgotten for their help in later years, the late Charles Crotty and John McAndrews along with Frank Tuttle, Dick Miller, Don Pierce and Charlie Gilbert, who is the current president.

So many have participated in Scouting in Wilmington, almost too numerous to mention, but suffice it to say that all who have given of their time either as an adult or a youngster in a pack or troop or post, will always remember their scouting years with much fondness. "Once a Scout, always a Scout."

Sincerely,

Evelyn Kaminski

Dear Larz:

I've lived on Salem Street for 23 years. My back yard has always been acres and acres of woods. The same woods that Mr. Butt wants to turn into a hotel and industrial park.

During my life time I've spent countless hours in those woods. From the time I was five, when my grandmother would take my brothers and sisters and me on picnics along the brook, 'til now at 25 when I still enjoy a quiet walk through the woods. I have spent endless hours dirtbiking and horseback riding. There is also a pond out there that I and all the neighborhood children have learned to skate on and still do.

But a change might be inevitable and I'll have to accept that. However, if anything is to be built out there, let it be houses. The land is already zoned that way, let's not change it. I don't want to look out my kitchen window and see buildings, and people replacing all the trees and wildlife that belong there. I don't think Mr. Butt would like it if it was in his back yard, nor would most people in the town.

I am sure there are places in Wilmington more suitable for a hotel than this area, like a place with proper zoning.

I urge the voters of Wilmington to come out to the special town meeting and support the common people. Do not let this land be rezoned for the benefit of big business and industry. Don't be lured by tax revenue. With the industry we already have in Wilmington this revenue is not going to make a big difference.

The woods of Wilmington are steadily being torn down to benefit the wallets of the builders. Let's have these woods stand they way they've been. Do not let them rezoned this area.

Come to the special town meeting and stand up for the people!!

Thank you,
Chip Bruce

Dear Larz:

First of all thank you for helping the Chemical People school age drug and alcohol abuse campaign be so visible to the community of Wilmington. We have appreciated your cooperation over the past year and a half.

As public information coordinator and current co-chairman of the Wilmington Chemical People Task Force since its inception, I am more than aware of the effort it has been to keep this organization alive and successful.

A few dedicated people in any community can make a difference and this experience has more than proved this. My heartfelt gratitude goes out to all the people who have been involved in this endeavor and I want them to know that they have made a contribution to altering the attitudes regarding juvenile drug and alcohol abuse in Wilmington.

The Chemical People Project was not created to be a responsible drinking campaign. Our goals have been clearly outlined from the beginning. This has been a positive no nonsense anti-drug and alcohol school age campaign in cooperation with local school and law enforcement officials, and it has been effective. There has been a 46 per cent decrease in arrests relating to juvenile substance abuse.

The awareness campaign launched in November 1983 has worked, make no mistake about that. It has worked on a national, state and community level all across the country. This grass roots movement has proven the American people have the power for change if they act.

The Wilmington Chapter has worked in cooperation with the National Center For Families, the National Federation of Parents for a Drug Free Youth, the Committees of Correspondence, M.A.D.D. and Action of Washington, plus networking with many Chemical People Chapters all across the United States.

From time to time people have attended our meetings and espoused responsible drinking for juveniles i.e. "Just so they don't get in automobiles and kill us."

This is unrealistic and only through proper law enforcement and the acceptance of the futility of this type of thinking can we combat the epidemic of drug and alcohol abuse now facing our young people. The American Distillers Assn. has launched a responsible drinking campaign for adults and this is certainly a step in the right direction. But it is ludicrous to be part of any program of this type when addressing children.

Children must be taught the hazards of alcohol and drug just as they have been taught the health hazards of smoking. It is not the role of the school department to teach responsible smoking. Neither is it their role to teach responsible drinking and drug use. They must teach the effects of these chemicals in a non-judgemental way and rely on family values with regard to the consumption of same.

We invite any parent, student or community member to attend our meetings and we certainly allow and encourage freedom of discussion. However, under the auspices of the National Chemical People Center, we cannot and will not attempt to change the by-laws of this organizations.

I will continue to uphold the principles under which this effort has come about and I will remain dedicated to the premise that we can have a Drug and Alcohol free society of young people.

The Chemical People Task Force of Wilmington cannot compromise its position. Please attend our next meeting on March 5 at the Regional Health Center when this issue will be discussed.

Shalom
Anne D. Lineha

Board looks to offset possible revenue sharing lose

Acknowledging that there seems to be some congressional support for trimming federal revenue sharing to communities, Tewksbury Selectman Chairman Paul Sullivan said Tuesday that the board should be prepared to look for ways to recover any cutback in the upcoming fiscal year.

President Reagan has proposed a cut in the federal revenue sharing program for the fiscal 1986 year in his budget document now on Capitol Hill. Communities losing federal revenue sharing will have to look elsewhere for those funds or will have to make budget cuts of their own to compensate for the loss.

Tewksbury selectmen, at Sullivan's request, voted last week to oppose any cut in revenue sharing. Sullivan said Tuesday, however, that press reports indicate there is a strong chance that congress will agree to some sort of cut in revenue sharing and that the town should be ready to look elsewhere for those funds.

Sullivan suggested the board look to Middlesex County for some financial assistance should a cut in revenue sharing be enacted. He noted that press reports have indicated the county will be receiving funds owed to it by the state for the rental of court buildings.

A member of the county advisory board's budget committee, Sullivan also said that the county may use part of those funds to repair some of the court buildings and, if there is any funds left over, is also considering giving some back to the cities and towns in the county in the form of lower county charges on the so-called cherry sheet.

Each year, cities and towns receive a lump sum of state aid on the cherry sheet, some of which goes directly to pay for county services the city or town receives during the year.

The board unanimously backed Sullivan's request to urge the county to use part of the state court rental payment to help offset any loss in revenue sharing.

Wildwood School

A series of family evenings has been scheduled for students and their parents by the Wildwood School PAC.

These evenings, one a month for the rest of the school year, will provide "an opportunity for families to come together for a fun evening," according to spokesman Donna Florence.

This past Friday, the school turned into a Valentine Village from 6 to 9 p.m. Students were able to make their own valentines and buttons from a button machine. They also took turns having their faces painted, munching popcorn, and watching a demonstration by professional break dancers.

A balloon launch is set for March 19, an ice cream smorgasbord for April 26, and a pizza party for May.

Census underway in Tewksbury

Tewksbury Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey has been appointed to supervise the Massachusetts state census in Tewksbury, according to an announcement from Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly's office. Carey was appointed to the position by the board of selectmen.

The official state census day in Massachusetts was to have been January 1, 1985. But due to a distribution delay at the state level, the forms are only now being rushed into preparation for a mailing to Tewksbury residents.

Once residents get the form in the mail, Carey urges them to follow the enclosed instructions, fold the form into thirds and return it at once in the pre-addressed envelope. "Your cooperation in returning this form within 10 days will prevent a house call by the census takers," Carey tells residents.

"Compiling the information from the census form returns is a lengthy process and deadlines to submit the state census results to the Office of the Secretary of State must be met," Carey notes.

Carey also explains that a prompt and accurate state census is very important. The census provides information needed to assure that Tewksbury has the proper amount of representation in the State Legislature and that the town receives its fair share of state and federal funds.

The state census information serves to provide proof of residency, protect voting rights and allow college students to apply for lower tuition at all Massachusetts state colleges. State census information is also used for calculating veterans' benefits, housing for the elderly and other benefits.

Residents at the town's elderly housing complexes on Carnation Drive, Saunders Circle, and Flucker Heights, as well as residents at nursing homes in town and at the Tewksbury State Hospital need not complete a census form. Census information on such residents is acquired from the secretaries at the elderly housing complexes, the nursing homes and the hospital.

February 21 deadline on Tewksbury warrant

Selectmen will close the warrant for the Tewksbury Annual Town Meeting on February 21. The action means that any resident or town board wishing to submit an article for consideration at the upcoming May Annual Town Meeting must submit a copy of the article to the selectmen's office prior to February 21.

Anyone wishing to have an article placed on the annual town meeting warrant should submit a typewritten and double spaced copy of the proposed article to the selectmen's office. Anyone requiring further information or assistance can call the selectmen's office at 851-4311.

Nomination papers available in Tewksbury

Nomination papers for Tewksbury town offices are available at the town clerk's office in town hall Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday evening from 7:00 to 8:30, according to Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey.

Anyone thinking of running for elected office in the town election on Saturday, April 13, 1985 must first file completed nomination papers in the town clerk's office by 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 2.

Offices open for election this year are as follows: Two positions on the board of selectmen; One position on the board of health; One position on the board of assessors; One position for town meeting moderator; One position on the planning board; Two positions on the school committee; One position on the housing authority; One position for trust fund commissioner; Two positions for library trustees; One position for auditor; And one position on the Regional Vocational School Committee.

Story hour at Wilmington Memorial Library

Registration is now open for story hours for three and four-year-olds at Wilmington Memorial Library. Because of increased interest in the program, four groups have been planned — two each on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings for a period of four weeks. The half hour programs will start at 9:30 and 10:15 a.m.

Four experienced teachers have volunteered their time to conduct these popular programs which have been planned under the guidance of Children's Services Librarian, Sarah Rueter. Featured are picture book stories, film strips, and fingerplays to introduce young children to the treasures of children's literature.

During the half hour taken up by the program, parents are welcome to visit with each other in the children's room as their younger children play with the puzzles and toys. If unaccompanied by other children, they are free to browse or select materials for themselves downstairs.

As each group must be limited to 15 children, there is a possibility that some may have to be placed on a waiting list. Early registrants will have a choice of day (Tuesday or Wednesday) and time (9:30 or 10:15). Registration for this free library program is open to Wilmington residents only. To register a child or to inquire about the program, drop in or call the Children's Department at 658-2967.

Wilmington senior topics

Thanks to Sweetheart and Jack

The weather was simply beautiful last Sunday for the 160 senior citizens who spent an enjoyable day through the generosity of the management of Sweetheart Plastics. Under the direction of Jack Cushing and the volunteer employees who helped him, seniors were treated to a delicious meal. Several gifts were raffled off by Jack to the delight of all present. To the management, Jack and the wonderful employees, senior citizens have extended grateful thanks.

All seniors attending this social must ride on the buses. This ruling has been set for safety sake.

Hearing aid specialist

Condos not low

income, says Langone

Joseph Langone, Wilmington builder, and his engineer, Mr. McLeod of Andover held a brief session with the Wilmington Planning Board Tuesday evening. It was, for all purposes, uneventful.

Langone reported that he had been talking with some of the neighbors in the Broad Street area. It is north of Broad Street where he plans to construct condominium housing.

Everyone, he reported, seemed to be of the opinion that what he was proposing amounted to low income housing.

Let them know what the prices will be, he was told. "That will change their minds!"

justments, Stewart explained. Stewart next requested $3,800 to fund training and conferences while Stapczynski offered $3,300. With so much training available in the juvenile, child abuse, narcotics and investigative areas in Washington, D.C., Stewart said, he had hoped to allow his staff to take advantage of more of these opportunities. With the town manager's recommendation for this account, members of the police department would have to pay their own transportation costs, Stewart said.

Under the small tools and equipment account, Stewart pointed to the need to fund the photo and lab area, an area that he said was "cut in half" by the town manager's budget. Since most drug deals take place in the dark and his men need pictures to provide testimony in court, Stewart said, photo and lab equipment in good working order is a vital need. At present, he said, many of his department are using their own equipment.

Stewart defended his budget proposals by saying they were "well thought out requests." He added, however, that he could "live with cuts if I have to."

Fincom members plan to deliberate on Stewart's requests and Stapczynski's recommended budget at a meeting Wednesday, February 13.

Other public hearings planned for the immediate future on the Fiscal 1986 budget include: February 19 - Fire Department budget; February 26 - public buildings budget; March 5 - library budget; March 12 - DPW budget; and March 19 - school budget (tentative).

Scouts celebrate Diamond Jubilee

The Diamond Anniversary of Boy Scouts of America was celebrated by the Greater Lowell Council of Boy Scouts in Wilmington last Saturday.

Approximately 2,000 Scouts and Scouters were present and after 11:30 a.m., about 4500 guests, all day long. The guests kept arriving and leaving, but the number remained nearly constant.

The last guests left at about 6 p.m.

The heavy drums of the Wilmington Company of Minutemen awoke every one in Aleppo Temple of the Shriners at 10:15. It was a noise not frequently heard today, the drums that were used by the military about two centuries ago.

Half a dozen various organizations held exhibitions, dances, programs and entertainment for those assembled.

There were 24 Packs of Cub Scouts, 27 Troops of Boy Scouts and eight Troops of Explorer Scouts from the total of nine towns and cities in the area of the Greater Lowell Council.

The opening featured the presentation of a Commonwealth Flag by Rep. Jim Miceli, to the Greater Lowell Council of Boy Scouts. It was received by Council President John Green and James Green, high priest and prophet of Aleppo Temple.

Police Explorers

Billerica Police Explorers is the title of the Scouts in Explorer Post 445 of Billerica. They are led by Billerica policeman Joe Doherty. Each of the scouts is being trained in police work, and in this photo they are simulating a telephone search, for a lost child.

At the table are: Officer Doherty (checked shirt), Eric Stuart, Tim Robbins and Bob Favreau. On the left side of the table is President Ricardh Giordano, of the Post.

Half-ton cake

An eye opener, at Aleppo Temple in Wilmington Saturday was a cake which weighed in at 1,000 pounds. It was prepared by a group in the Wakefield Regional Technical High School, of which Scott Sughrue of Belvoir Road, Tewksbury was a member. The cake was cut up, at the close of the day's work, and distributed to more than 4,000 persons who were present.

He helped bake the cake but wasn't there to eat it

The Town Crier reported February 6 that Eagle Scout Scott Sughrue of Belvoir Rd., Tewksbury, was the person who prepared the 1000 pound cake for the Diamond Jubilee of Scouting, which was held February 9 in the Aleppo Temple, Wilmington.

The story was slightly in error. The cake was prepared by the Culinary Arts Department of the Northeast Vocational Technical School in Wakefield. Thomas Markham, principal of that school is involved in Scouting, and offered to let his students make the cake. He also offered to have students in the Woodworking Department make a frame for the cake.

Scott is a student at the University of Lowell. He told the Greater Lowell Council of Boy Scouts of the cake being made, and that he and others would deliver it to the Aleppo Temple in Wilmington last Saturday morning.

Scott and others in Scouting trucked the cake, in its various parts, to the Aleppo Temple Saturday morning. Sometime around 11 a.m. there was an automobile accident, and Scott suffered an injury to a lung.

He went home to his father and mother, reported the accident, and the injury. Then because he wanted to go back to the Aleppo Temple, he was allowed to do so, providing that he would notify his parents of any pain.

Scott talked with the Town Crier several times during the afternoon and said nothing of the accident. He appeared to show no pain.

But, at 6 p.m., when the cutting of the cake was just about completed, there was pain. Scott had been cutting the cake at the time.

His parents took Scott to the Leahy Clinic in Burlington where it was discovered the lung was collapsed. As of press time late Tuesday, Scott is reported to be recovering, but the lung has not, as yet, been reinflated.

Gas station seeks time to curb dumpster abuse

Although the owners of Haffner's self service gas station on Main St., Tewksbury agree certain people "abuse" the privilege of using dumpsters on the site, they failed Tuesday to provide selectmen with a solid timetable for solving the problem.

The owners, Haffner Fournier and Louise Haffner Fournier of North Andover, also discussed the trash problem on the site at a Tewksbury Board of Health meeting Monday.

A meeting of the minds resulted from both gatherings with both sides agreeing steps should be taken to improve the situation. But no firm timetable was set up. After the Fourniers asked for time to hash out a solution to the problem, selectmen voted Tuesday to review the matter once again next week.

The station has self serve gas pumps, car washes and vacuum units. It is the dumpsters placed next to the vacuum units that has caused the stir.

The dumpsters are there to allow motorists to discard such small items as ashes, paper wrappers, fast food containers and other items that normally collect in the car.

But the dumpsters have also been used as a place in which to discard of larger items such as mattresses, old machine parts, building materials and household rubbish. The situation has been getting worse over the past few months prompting selectmen and health board members alike to use such phrases as "dump" and "rubbish transfer station" when referring to the site.

Area businessmen have also complained about the large amount of trash left by the dumpsters and about trash that gradually blows from the open dumpsters all around the neighborhood.

Monday's meeting was an effort to find a "reasonable solution," as expressed by Fournier, and the result was, in the words of board member Joan Dunlevy, "a very fruitful discussion."

Selectmen, however, pushed Tuesday to get the Fourniers to set a date by when the problem would be solved. However, the Fourniers continually told the board they had several options open and needed time to investigate which one would work best.

"You'll have to give us a little bit of time because this is the first time we've really looked hard at it," said Louise Fournier. "We don't want it. We take pride in our locations," she added.

Haffner Fournier also repeatedly asked the board to alarm the residents that disposal of large items at the site is illegal and is not what the service was intended to be. He also told selectmen of his displeasure with the practice of dumping large items at the site.

All three members of the health board had, in recent months, visited the area to observe the problem, as had Health Officer Bill McMenimen.

Richard Sughrue, who has a place of business nearby, has many photographs showing overfilled dumpsters and large items stacked next to them.

The board of health situation statement was that Haffner's had become a "transfer station" for rubbish. Truckers and others would visit, and dump trash into the dumpsters, some times during the night hours and frequently on weekends. One story that was told was of a truck dumping empty paint cans into a dumpster on a Sunday, a situation that Joan Dunlevy deemed to be a fire hazard.

"You are allowing your premises to be used for the collection of rubbish," said Selectmen Charlie Coldwell Tuesday.

Fournier, however, said both nights he does not condone the use of the dumpsters for the disposal of household trash or other materials not normally found in one's automobile.

He is, he said, trying as best he can to keep the place clean. "It's too bad people don't respect other people's property," he said Tuesday.

The appearance of large items on the lot "is something recent," he said while adding that "we intend to do something about it."

Fournier did not feel his place of business was a "transfer station," but he agreed, in one situation, that people who bring mattresses, as was reported, were bringing a material not normally found in a car. "It (vacuum cleaner service) is not meant for mattresses and wood," he said.

Mrs. Dunlevy added that she had seen people drive in with their trash barrels, and dump the contents into the dumpsters. "People don't care - people are abusing the dumpsters."

Selectman Bill Hallisey echoed those comments Tuesday. But Hallisey added that as a businessman, Haffner should take pride in the appearance of his property and not have to be told by town boards to keep it clean. "This situation is not getting any better. It's getting progressively worse," he said.

"We have rubbish piled besides them (dumpsters) as if it was the town dump," Hallisey added.

Health Officer Bill McMenimen told of examining the contents of one dumpster, to see if the trash was "local" (Tewksbury) or "out-of-town." The greatest part of the trash, he said, was "local."

At the same time, the health board discussed the problems that are evolving because of the closing of a dump in Billerica. That may have added, the board agreed, to the woes of Haffner's station when Billerica residents no longer able to bring trash to the town dump looked elsewhere.

Fournier suggested, at one point to lock the dumpsters in a closed position, and have only a small six inch hole for admission of trash and rubbish. It was, he suggested, one way of keeping bed springs and mattresses out of the dumpsters.

He also suggested putting up signs stating that dumping of larger items would be considered illegal dumping. Joan Dunlevy felt that putting up signs would do no good. But, she said, "if people experience a new behavior they might change their attitude."

Health Board Chairman Jack Lu tabled the discussions for the time being, so that Fournier and Bill McMenimen could discuss possible solutions. "Enforcement is definitely a part of the program," he said.

He told Fournier that the Tewksbury Police can charge people with illegal dumping and fines can be inflicted as a result. "Your attendants can get registration numbers - we will cooperate, in any way we can."

However, Selectman Chairman Paul Sullivan told Fournier Tuesday, "We don't want to burden the police with watching your dumpsters." Sullivan had suggested that Fournier put a large enclosed dumpster accessible only to employees to the rear of the site and place smaller trash barrels next to the vacuum units.

Sullivan argued that as long as large open dumpsters were placed next to the vacuum units, someone would always come by to fill them.

Coldwell echoed those comments by saying the dumpsters were an "attractive nuisance" and that the mere fact that the dumpsters are there "helps" people to "abuse" their use.

The entire board pushed Fournier to announce a date by which he would implement new procedures at the vacuum stations by arguing the situation has been around for years. Fournier, however, disputed those statements and said the problem has only recently cropped up.

Sullivan mentioned that the board continuously re-issues a gas storage license to Fournier as a gesture of good faith that he will use it wisely. He asked that Fournier show more good faith by keeping the vacuum area clean.

"I will not sit here and be intimidated," was Fournier's response.

Sullivan, however, said he was not trying to intimidate anyone. Hallisey apologized if Fournier felt intimidated, but quickly added, "If intimidation is what needs to be done in this matter, then that is what needs to be done."

At the suggestion of Selectman Tom Girard, the board voted to request Fournier submit a letter to the board within one week stating how he intends to solve the problem. The board would then review the matter again next week.

Developers would build sewer mains

Two firms are volunteering to construct sewer mains in Wilmington. They made proposals as such at the Wilmington Water & Sewer Commissioners meeting on February 7.

Joseph Langone, Wilmington builder, is planning construction of 94 town house units (multiple housing) on a site of land north of Broad Street. He and his engineer, William McLeod of Andover Consultants, are proposing a sewer main from that site to Cunningham Street. The sewer main would cross the Lubbers Brook area at the lower part of the old Winn Cranberry Bog, where Langone is proposing to construct a street.

The street is being proposed to lessen traffic on Broad Street and King Street. The sewer will connect at Cunningham Street and Everett Avenue, westerly of Lubbers Brook.

An eight inch sewer is being proposed, to operate on the gravity system, with the possibility of a 10 inch sewer at the Everett Avenue end. The Cunningham Street sewer flows, by gravity, northward to the pumping station sewer near Biggar Avenue.

An alternative hookup could be to the sewer on Faulkner Avenue, which flows southward, toward Glen Road.

Commissioner Arthur Smith was of the opinion that the Cunningham sewer, when hooked up to the proposed sewer, would be "too flat" in grade. Because of that McLeod suggested that a pumping station might be constructed to connect the proposed sewer directly to that of Faulkner Avenue.

Chairman George Allan said that when Langone gets his article for the construction of planned unit development passed at the town meeting, the commissioners will then discuss the final plans.

The second proposal is for a sewer main to be constructed along Cedar Street, between the Deming Way housing for the elderly and the principal sewer main near Sweetheart Plastics.

Tewksbury builder James DeCarolis is proposing to construct multiple family housing on former Roberts' land in back of the big mansion on Burlington Avenue. One of the boundaries of the property is Mill Brook which flows past the housing project at Deming Way, and near the Johnny White home on Cedar Street extension.

DeCarolis thinks it is possible to put in the proposed sewer main on Cedar Street without any cost to the town, or to the people whose homes are on the street. He would construct the sewer, he said, so that the connecting pipes to the homes would be brought to the edge of the properties involved, without cost.

DeCarolis estimates he will propose 125 housing units on the former Roberts Estate.

The discussion was long, with Chairman George Allan saying that it was "not cut and dried." He is awaiting answers to questions he has asked the town counsel concerning the proposed Cedar Street sewer.

However, he told DeCarolis, "you come up with the proposal and we will have a look at it. You put in a free sewer, on Cedar Street, and we won't stand in your way. We have no money to help."

Things can get complicated, he warned, because the housing authority may be getting state aid. "Get state aid, and you get involved."

It could be that the proposed sewer that DeCarolis was talking of could provide the sewer that the Wilmington Housing Authority seeks. DeCarolis will return to the water and sewer commissioners in two weeks, to further discuss the project.

Wilmington Planning Board questions accessory use

The Wilmington Planning Board intends to write a letter to the board of appeals about one decision that was made in the public hearings of February 12.

In the case of David Redfearn of High Street, the planning board questions the wording "accessory building with habitable floor area." The appeals board granted a variance for a second apartment to the Redfearn family, who plan to accommodate a daughter and children in the original house.

The Redfearns told the appeals board they will convert the barn into a three room apartment and that it has been slept in on occasion.

The letter from the planning board will be sent to the building inspector. The board will ask that gentleman what he thinks the sentence means.

All other appeals heard Tuesday night were granted, except one for Kevin J. McMillan of Parker Street. Mr. McMillan was seeking to divide a parcel of land off Floradale Avenue into two parcels. The board voted against the division.

The great majority of the cases heard Tuesday concerned construction which had taken place some years ago, and which was closer to the lot line than the lot allows. People who now want to sell their homes find that banks will not loan money where such construction exists. An appeal to the board of appeals is the only way to get such a matter straightened out.

Tewksbury to consider adopting dumpster rules

During the next few weeks, members of the Tewksbury Board of Health will be checking over and reading lists of rules and regulations governing dumpsters in various towns in eastern Massachusetts. Letters have been written to many communities requesting copies of any bylaws, rules or regulations concerning the use and upkeep of dumpsters in their communities.

The State Health Department has not developed a "model dumpster law" the health board was told, but did send along the bylaws of Everett and Malden.

Chelmsford has a set of dumpster regulations. The town of Dracut has none.

The health board is slated to discuss whether Tewksbury should adopt a set of rules and regulations to govern the use and upkeep of dumpsters in town.

Police asking parents to buckle-up children

February 8-15 is National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week and the Wilmington Police are asking parents to make a special effort to buckle-up their children.

Automobile accidents are the leading cause of death and injury to children. The Child Passenger Safety Law, requiring all children under the age of five to be fastened in a properly adjusted car seat or seat belt, went into effect in January 1982.

According to the National Child Passenger Safety Association, in 1983, approximately 7,125 children aged birth-19 were killed in automobile accidents, and at least 811,700 were injured, nationwide. The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles reports that in 1982, there were 95 deaths of children 0-19, as a result of motor vehicle crashes.

"Safety seat and seat belt use remains low in Wilmington. During the week of February 8-15, our officers will be making a special effort to enforce the child passenger safety law, and to educate the public about the benefits of buckling-up," report Chief Bobby Stewart and Safety Officer Shelley.

For further information about safety belts and child safety seats, contact your local health department or your child's pediatrician.

To obtain a free "buckle-up" dashboard reminder sticker, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to:

Buckle-up, P.O. Box 10, Boston, Ma 02112.

Tewksbury youth charged in high school bomb scare

Tewksbury police have charged a 17-year-old male with creating a false bomb scare at Tewksbury Memorial High School last Monday.

According to reports, Sgt. Paul Johnson arrested David Crowell, Jr., 17, of 51 Mill St., Tewksbury on February 11 at 11:55 a.m. and charged him with making a false report of a bomb. The arrest came after police listened to a tape recording of the bomb scare called into the high school sometime over the weekend.

According to Johnson, an automatic phone answering machine recorded a bomb scare message over the weekend. In the message, according to Johnson, the caller stated that a bomb would go off in the high school building at 12:15 p.m. on Monday, February 11.

Police received initial reports of the bomb scare message at 8:05 a.m. Monday and responded to the scene with fire fighters. Both police and fire personnel searched the building during the morning hours, but could find no bomb, says Johnson.

Johnson also said officials evacuated the high school as a precautionary measure prior to 12:15 p.m., but no bomb exploded.

Another Redmen, Wildcat showdown

The Tewksbury Redmen (9-2-1) and the Wilmington Wildcats (7-4-1) will play the most important game of the Merrimack Valley Hockey League season when they tangle Monday night February 18 in a 7 p.m. game at the Janas Rink.

Coach Bill Cullen's Wildcats, winners of the Small School Division in two out the past three years, defeated the Redmen, 5-2 in their first meeting January 12.

Since that time however, coach Bob McCabe's club has been on a roll to surge past the Wildcats and into first place in the division.

At press time Wednesday morning (Feb. 13) the Redmen had games remaining with Dracut, Methuen, Wilmington and Lawrence and have all but assured themselves of a tourney berth.

The Wildcats have games left with Lawrence, Dracut, Tewksbury and winless Greater Lawrence. The Wildcats are also headed for the tourney with a second place finish, but Monday night's game is for the typical Tewksbury-Wilmington bragging rights.

National Youth Hockey Week

The goal of National Youth Hockey Week is to nationally recognize youth hockey organizations throughout the United States. Growth and participation in the U.S. has advanced at a steady rate in the past few years.

Ice hockey is played in almost every state in America. Amateur Hockey in the United States (AHAUS) in the years 1983-1984 had more than 11,500 teams registered with over 250,000 players participating.

Even though a number of players go to college, the pros and even the Olympic Team, AHAUS still seeks to recognize and promote the sport at its roots, the youth program.

Tewksbury would like to give recognition to those individuals who make the game what it is today in the community. The youth hockey program pays tribute to the hard work and dedication displayed by the coaches, players and parents.

Busy week for young Wildcats

This was a busy week for the Wilmington Wildcat 7th grade basketball squad, as they travelled for two games and hosted one.

Tuesday, Feb. 5 the young Wildcats traveled to the Marshall Simon's Junior High in Burlington for a 6:30 game. The Wildcats held their lead for the first three periods of the game, but in the fourth period, Wilmington lost its momentum and Burlington surged and ahead for a 42-39 victory.

Jamey Robichaud hit the hoop for 15 points, followed by Joey Mahoney with seven. Mark Bobek put in six points, Jason Oliver four points, and Scott Tuxbury three points, while Andy Parr and Joey McFadyen each added two points. KC Bolger, Mike Burns and Peter Medberry sparked the defense. Saturday found the team at Woburn's Boys Club for a 12:30 game, where the young Wildcats had a grand time and came away with a 36-35 win. Robichaud racked up 10 points, Bobek hit for eight points, with Riccio and Oliver scoring six points each. Oliver's foul shot was in the last three seconds of the game and put Wilmington ahead for the win. Medberry scored Wilmington's opening hoop and finished with four points. Parr added two points from the foul line. George McFadyen and Burns helped out with several fine steals and good defensive play, while Mahoney and Tuxbury worked hard under the boards.

Sunday, Feb. 10 Lynnfield's 7th grade team invaded Shawsheen Tech for a very exciting fast moving game in which the Wildcats held the lead until three minutes of the last quarter when Lynnfield tied the score, 46-46 and then managed to sink a hoop and one foul shot to go ahead for a 49-46 victory. The Wildcats' high scorer for the game was Jamey Robichaud with 25 points. Mark Bobek hit the hoop for 10 points, followed by teammates Scott Tuxbury and Jason Oliver for four points each. Chris Riccio, along with being strong under the boards, contributed two points. Andy Parr helped out with his ballhandling and scored a point. Mike George, KC Bolger, Joey McFadyen, Joey Mahoney, Peter Medberry and Mike Burns sparked the defense and kept Lynnfield on its toes.

Sixth graders top Lynnfield Persistence paid off as the sixth grade Wildcats beat visiting Lynnfield, 35-31 at Shawsheen Tech Sunday afternoon. Good defense was the key during the first half, as the opponents were held to only 13 points. Scoring during the first half was paced by Eric Heselson (six points) as the locals trailed by one point at halftime.

The action quickened during the second half and was led by Bobby Caruso (15 points) and Greg Maiella (seven points). Kevin Lewis added two points and an important blocked shot, while Tony Bonnarigo (two points) and Matt Ryan (three points) both added 14 foot all-net hoops. Michael Hawley and Joey Cunningham added good rebounding efforts, while Greg Scarfo provided a lot of hustle with three rebounds and three steals.

The local fans became concerned midway through the fourth period as Lynnfield went on a scoring spree. Andy Jamerson halted the roll with a key tieup and jump with 3:10 remaining and it was all Wildcats for the remainder of the game.

The next scheduled game will be played at the Shawsheen Tech Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m.

Knicks maintain slim lead, 36-28

The Knicks maintained their slim lead in the Intermediate East Division of the Tewksbury Youth Basketball League by defeating an always tough Bullets squad last week, 36-28.

Jeff Bissett and Mark Stoddard played excellent defense while tossing in four and three points respectively.

The Celtics upended a scrappy 76'er team by a score of 36-20. Celtics Mark Conway led all scorers with nine points, followed by Sean McShee and Eric Morris with eight and Martin Damian with six. Danny Sprague played strong defense. The 76'ers were led by John Kuchinski, who popped in eight points, followed by Danny Silva, four and Dave Carroll with three. Brian Kreuger played a fine all-around game.

The Kings squeaked by the Sonics, 35-31 to stay a game back of the Nuggets in the West Division. Steve McAveney poured in 17 points to pace the winners. Offensively, Colin Bradford played well while throwing in six points for the Kings. Kevin Merritt and Tom Gagnon played tight defensively. Patrick Frend and Mark Donohue provided the offense for the Sonics with seven and six points respectively.

The Nuggets extended their undefeated string to 22 with a 48-35 triumph over the Suns. Three Nuggets hit for double figures led by Craig Hogan 15, Brian Smith 14 and Jeff Snoonian with 13.

The Suns produced the game high scorer however, as Jeff Rideout tossed in a neat 19. Kevin Kelley contributed six points to the Suns cause.

In Senior Division action, the Hawks remained unbeaten atop the East with a 68-36 win over the Clippers. High scorers for the Hawks were Ted Sullivan with 16 and Jeff Landry with 14. Tom Aylward dropped in 14 points in the losing effort for the Clippers. Chris Macie and Jeff Masse chipped in nine points apiece to round out the Clipper scoring.

A valentine collector

By JIM ROUILLARD

Persecution, sometimes, can yield the most surprising results.

In the case of Saint Valentine, martyred by the Romans for his practice of marrying young couples — the fruits of persecution have yielded the celebration of Valentine's Day: a tribute to love.

But it wasn't always so. Saint Valentine lost more than his heart on February 14, 270. He lost his head as well.

Now, Mrs. Jean Twitchell of Winchester, who sensibly retains both head and heart, but has a soft spot for Valentine's Day, has come up with a collection of antique valentines which reflect the gentler aspects of Valentine's Day. The collection is on display for the month of February at the Junior Room of the Stoneham Public Library.

Mrs. Twitchell, Head of Children's Services at the Winchester Public Library, loves still to make and send her own valentines.

"Does that include writing your own verses?" she was asked.

She hesitated, eyed the writer with a glint of grim humor, and responded with one word:

"Doggerel," she said.

But no limericks, she added.

Jean Baker Twitchell, a short, lively lady with a lot of zip, humor and zest, grew up in Connecticut, but has lived in Winchester since 1962. Ten years before that, some 33 years ago, she and her husband Henry, were going through his grandmother's apartment after her death.

The grandmother, Rachel Gorgas, was of Pennsylvania Dutch extraction, and "saved everything," said Jean, who found the box of antique valentines, which comprise the core of her present collection. She has added a few since then, through purchase and gifts from friends.

Jean said she likes Valentine's Day because it's such a "totally positive, happy, upbeat holiday. I still remember running to other people's houses and sliding the valentines under the doors. The point was not to be seen — but to surprise your friends."

Valentine's Day over the years has seen some curious customs, including the sending of "Vinegar Valentines," designed to insult the recipient — and the public burning in

'Aclump at the back of my car'

By DAN FERULLO

I came to the puddle, I could not cross it. Identity failed me. We are nothing, I said, and fell. — Virginia Woolf, "The Waves."

A friend of ours who also works as a writer in the newspaper field called the other day to tell us about an experience he had recently: Last Friday night a lady friend and I drove to Boston to attend a concert at the Berklee Performance Center. You might remember that Friday was bitterly cold, with stars twinkling magnificently against a black pearl sky.

A fellow I know owns a small public relations firm on Newbury Street, and since he hardly ever uses his parking space in the alleyway between Newbury and Boylston streets at night, he permits me to use it when I travel into the city in the evening. A lucky stroke, since parking spaces are at a premium in the Back Bay, unless you park in a lot or garage, which usually means having to walk quite a distance in the freezing cold to get where you're going.

I pulled around Boylston Street and onto Fairfield Street and then carefully into the alleyway. This fellow's space is located about midway up the alley between Fairfield and Gloucester streets. The alley was pitch black, save for the shadowy light cast from a handful of windows scattered along the rear of the old brownstone buildings, nevertheless we managed to find the spot without difficulty.

The space is situated under a concrete alcove, beneath a block on the Boylston Street side of the alley (since I never asked my friend why the space was on the opposite side from his building, I just assumed he was renting the space from the owner of the Boylston street building). It was also very dark under the concrete shelter, yet I was able to tell that the space was vacant. I stopped the car, began to back up slowly into the space. The car ascended a slight incline. I tapped my break, so I wouldn't enter too fast and end up accidentally hitting the cement wall. The wall lit up instantly in the reflection of my backup lights.

Then something peculiar happened: The car came to a dead stop. I glanced curiously at my date. I took my foot off the gas pedal, and the car gently lurched forward. I touched the gas again. Once more the car came to a halt about four feet from the back wall.

I looked over at my date again. "What the..." I mumbled. "The tires feel like they're hitting something." Something that wasn't hard, like a box brimful of rubbish; it was

What you should carry in your car

New England is notorious for its rapidly changing weather, especially in winter. A driver may start out on a clear and bright day and end up in the midst of a snow or ice storm.

For that reason, AAA Massachusetts recommends that you carry the following items in your car:

Windshield scraper — with long handle and brush for easy snow removal.

Can of windshield de-icing spray.

Extra windshield washer fluid (antifreeze type).

Old cardboard milk carton or plastic bottle of sand or kitty gravel.

Small snow shovel.

Trac-Treds — wire mesh strips for "getting unstuck."

Wire drying spray for moisture problems.

Flares for protection — remain good indefinitely if protective coating is not penetrated.

Old blanket or coat — for extra warmth if you're stuck, for protection if you have to get out in rain or snow, to put on the ground if you have to change a tire, or to put under the wheels if you need extra traction.

Trivia

The ancient Aztecs considered chocolate such a prestigious drink that the golden goblets in which it was served were thrown away after one use, National Geographic reports.

In 1857 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in the Dred Scott case that a slave was not a citizen, nor was he automatically made free by virtue of temporary residence in a Free State, says National Geographic.

The foreheads of the Dinka women of southern Sudan are heavily scarred to symbolize the horns of cattle, which the tribe consider beautiful as well as vital to their existence, says National Geographic.

Tree seedlings can be ordered

The Middlesex Conservation District sponsors a seedling program each year to encourage residents to plant trees and shrubs to control erosion, provide food and shelter for wildlife, provide windbreaks and for beautification projects. Seedling stock is sold at very low cost. The program is explained in a brochure which is available at the District office. Send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to MCD, P.O. Box 147, Littleton, Ma. 01460 to receive a brochure.

Items covered in the seedling program include conifers, deciduous trees, shrubs, ground covers, small fruit and Japanese Beetle killer. New varieties this year are: Mugho Pine, Frasier Fir, Sargeant's Flowering Crab, Wild Black Cherry, Chinese Chestnut, Norway Maple, Russian Olive, Common Lilac and Crownvetch (sold in the seed form and as one year old crowns). Each is sold in bundles. Prices and descriptions are included in the brochure.

The program allows landowners to order seedlings through the District by reserving the plants now, and picking them up in April when it is time to plant. Pick-up will be at the 4H Fair Grounds in Westford the third Saturday in April (April 20).

Descriptions of varieties, size, soil requirements, cost and pick-up information are included in the free brochure. Orders are filled on a first-come, first-served basis with March 30, 1985 as the deadline for placing an order.

POEM

"THE GREATEST VALENTINE"

The greatest gift that we can give,
Cannot be purchased in a store.
It lasts far longer than we live,
For it endures forever more.

It's not a picture framed in gold,
Or string of pearls or diamond ring.
It's not sable, mink or stole,
Or jeweled crown for queen or king.

The precious gift to give is "love."
We cannot keep it for ourselves.
It's given to us by God above,
To give and share; for it's "His Love."

Retired Men's Club

WAKEFIELD — The Retired Men's Club of Wakefield held their regular meeting on Jan. 23 at the Congregational Church hall with 256 members attending. Considering the average age of the club members and the winter driving conditions, this was an excellent turnout.

The usual reports were given and birthday greetings were extended to all members whose birthday anniversary occurred in January.

Chester Card reported for the Club Band and stated that they are looking for some Alto Horn players, and would be grateful if some did come forward and join this fine group.

Henry Murphy reported on the Stamp Club stating their next meeting will be held on Feb. 10 at 1 p.m. at the Library.

Bob Sproul reported on future trips that are being planned. In March a trip to the maple syrup country is scheduled and another trip that is in the planning stage is to the Gaspe Peninsula from June 17 through June 24. All interested should contact Mr. Sproul.

Vice President George Richards introduced the guest speaker for the day, Dr. Aaby, an eye specialist from Melrose.

Dr. Aaby gave a very interesting talk and with the aid of his slides, he was able to show the members the various problems that affect and impair the vision of the individual affected; the most common being cataract and other related problems. Dr. Aaby pointed out that even though this is a problem, with today's knowledge and equipment, it does not present a very serious problem.

Antique Valentines

effigy (with the onlookers shouting abuse) of any young man who deserted the young woman whom the village elders had assigned as his "valentine."

But the events which provided the source for the Valentine legend — and subsequent practice — were not all comic or upbeat.

The death of the saint for whom the day is named was a particularly bloody one. According to legend, Valentine (or Valentinus) was an early Christian, either priest or bishop, who persisted in marrying young couples — despite the desire of the Roman emperor to discourage marriage.

"When the Roman empire needed soldiers, Emperor Claudius II decreed that nobody could marry or become engaged. Claudius believed that marriage made men want to stay at home instead of fighting wars," according to Edna Barth, author of "Hearts, Cupids and Red Roses."

Ruth Webb Lee, in "A History of Valentines," supplies a little more detail on the life and death of the patron saint of lovers:

Valentinus was said to have performed valiant service in assisting Christian martyrs during the persecution by the Emperor Claudius II, according to Lee. Giving aid and comfort to Christians at the time was a crime; accordingly Valentinus was arrested and imprisoned for it.

"A year later he was taken before the emperor, whom he tried to convert to Christianity. The Roman ruler was so impressed with the priest's dignity that he attempted to save Valentinus by in turn trying to convert him to the Roman gods," Lee writes.

Neither was converted to the other's faith, but Claudius had the last word, since "Valentinus courageously, but very injudiciously replied, 'I say of thy gods none other thing but that they were men mortal...and full of ordure and evil.'"

Needless to say, that response did not win the emperor's heart. Valentinus was immediately condemned, first to be beaten with clubs, then stoned, and finally to be beheaded outside Rome's Flaminian Gate.

Legend further holds that a pink almond tree grew and blossomed near Saint Valentine's grave, a symbol of abiding love.

Scholars speculate that the execution of Saint Valentine may have provided part of the "entertainment," on the eve of an ancient annual Roman Spring festival, the Lupercalia.

But in later years "when the early Christian fathers were busy obliterating pagan superstitions and dates by substituting those of the Christian belief, names of many of the martyred Saints were used to replace the old festivals," Frank Staff, "The Valentine and Its Origins."

The custom of choosing a member of the opposite sex as a valentine on the day of the saint's martyrdom is of considerable antiquity, according to Winchester's Jean Twitchell. It was even an old belief that birds began to mate on the 14th of February.

On the Eve of Saint Valentine's Day, young people of both sexes used to meet — and each of them drew a name by lot of one of the opposite sex, from a common receptacle. Each gentleman thus got a lady for his valentine, and became the valentine of the lady.

The element of choice, which we exercise today in becoming someone's valentine, apparently did not hold in those days — but the practice may have merely been the ancient equivalent of a blind date.

But the custom held, and evolved into giving notes, letters, cards, and love tokens to a chosen valentine. In 1797, several "ladies and gentlemen of distinction," published in London "The Complete British Valentine Writer, or the High Road to Love for Both Sexes," which offered helpful hints in the phrasing of valentines, "which the youth of both sexes may read without blushing."

And so the giving of valentines persisted to the types represented by Mrs. Twitchell's collection.

"Generally speaking, the majority of valentines made in the years before 1840 were not only pretty, but beautiful, and the sentiments which they carried...were invariably nauseatingly sentimental in style," according to Frank Staff.

But there were worse things than sentimentality. There was outright insult.

Known as "Vinegar Valentines," these usually anonymous cards ridiculed the old and wrinkled, the spinster, the drunkard or braggart...and even the postman.

Jean Twitchell's collection of valentines, which date from perhaps the middle-19th to the early 20th century, tend to the sentimental. There are no "Vinegar Valentines," though one could be construed as bordering on a subtle, but probably unintentional, encouragement of divorce, bigamy, or worse:

"Girlie with the cheeks of red,
Girl with life and vim
If I but knew the chap you wed,
I'd like to change with him."

The majority of Jean Twitchell's valentines include sentiments that might be considered saccharine to some — but they are still interesting examples of American, British and German ephemera of past years.

There are elaborate foldouts; a complementary pair of possibly valuable Raphael Tuck valentines ("Publishers to their majesties the king and queen"): each is of a young girl with a movable bonnet, one delighted and happy, the other in a paroxysm of tears, a sadly sobbing girl who yearns for love.

The collection includes sweetheart rabbit lovers in Victorian dress, with movable eyes; a thick cardboard cutout woman with an unfolding tissue-paper skirt and a gilt wire hanging from her waist with large, attached heart; a lover's knot of bluebells; endless doves and cupids, and dillies mounted on embossed gilt paper, adorned with stickers of dewey-eyed girls, boys, loveknots, birds' nests, and even bulldogs (symbols of constancy?).

Take in the exhibit if you get the chance. It's worth a peek, for a light-hearted glimpse of 19th-century nostalgia and sentimentality.

As for Winchester's Jean Twitchell, thanks to whom the bulk of the exhibit is available (the display also includes some valentine vases and other items provided by Shirley Murray of Stoneham) — her hand-made valentines for this year are by now all finished and in the mail, including those to her children, David Twitchell, of Exeter, New Hampshire, and Ellen Schultz, of San Francisco — but most especially, her very first one to her only grand-child to date: seven-month old Stephanie Schultz.

But what would Jean Twitchell most want for herself on Valentine's Day 1985?

"No snow!" she replied, with the barest hesitation.

Let's hope she gets her wish.

Trivia

The sport of "talking turkey" in on the rise, says National Wildlife magazine. No longer just a rural, southern sport passed from father to son, the art of turkey calling is turning into a true national pastime. Some say it's contagious. The object is to attract a wild turkey into the open by using an artificial call. Although a call has to be pretty bad not to work at all, most gobblers are often heard and not seen.

SNOW TRAIN

Advance purchase discount prices are still in effect for the specially-chartered, "Snow Train" railroad excursion to the Berkshires on Saturday, February 23, 1985, sponsored by the Massachusetts Bay Railroad Enthusiasts, Inc. Bill Crawford, president of the organization announced today. The diesel-powered, specially-chartered AMTRAK excursion train, dubbed the "New England States Limited" will depart Boston's South Station at 8:00 a.m. and will make passenger stops at Back Bay, Wellesley, Framingham, and Worcester, enroute to its final destinations of Pittsfield, Massachusetts and Amsterdam, New York.

According to Crawford, Mass Bay Railroad Enthusiasts' Fall Foliage trip to New Hampshire last October was so successful that another trip had to be scheduled by popular demand. Passengers can sit back and relax, away from the bustle of the city aboard this Winter Fun Snow Train. There will be plenty of time to browse in Pittsfield, to explore this historic Berkshire town, and to visit local shops and businesses. A number of side trip options are being planned, including an olde-fashioned horse drawn sleigh-ride (weather permitting) and a visit to the famed Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge.

This is the thirty-third railroad excursion train sponsored by Mass Bay Railroad Enthusiasts in the current series of specially-chartered rail tours. Each of these trips ventures to areas famed for their rich New England history and their spectacular scenery.

Additional information about this unique, one-day, energy-efficient railroad excursion may be obtained by calling (617) 277-2843 in Boston or by writing Mass Bay RRE, P.O. Box 525, Bedford, Ma. 01730.

GROUP SHOW

The Artists Foundation is accepting applications now through March 1, 1985. The program is open to artists who reside in Massachusetts, are over 18 years of age, and who are not enrolled in any undergraduate program. Panels comprised of out-of-state artists and arts professionals representing a broad aesthetic range will review the applicants' work and select recipients solely on the basis of the quality of their work.

The Artists Fellowship Program is administered by the Artists Foundation, Inc., a non-profit artists service organization, with funds from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities. Application forms may be obtained by writing or calling the Artists Foundation, Inc., 110 Broad Street, Boston, Ma. 02110; telephone (617) 482-8100. Translated applications will be available on request to non-English speaking artists.

WORRYING ABOUT IT WON'T MAKE IT GO AWAY.

When you have an ache, pain or minor illness that doesn't seem to want to go away by itself, the first thing you want to do is have it taken care of.

The last thing you want is to worry about where to go.

Worrying about things has a way of making them worse, not better.

So stop worrying and come to HealthFirst.

The HealthFirst Walk-in Medical Care Center in your community is staffed with highly qualified physicians, nurses and medical technicians, and is equipped to take care of most of the urgent care problems

you might otherwise — and unnecessarily — take to the emergency room.

HealthFirst is actually part of the established health care delivery system which includes private practices, hospitals and specialists. It is associated with prestigious institutions like Beth Israel and University Hospital.

If you do need additional or more specialized care, we know exactly where to refer you. Immediately, if necessary.

Fortunately, many aches, pains and minor injuries will go away all by themselves.

When you have one that won't, bring it to HealthFirst.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

The railroad opened up a highway of steel from the rock ribbed coast of the Atlantic to the Golden Gate of California. It was built with the blood, sweat and tears and the back-breaking work of thousands of laborers who paved a ribbon of steel through mountains, over valleys, rivers and canyons, all in the name of progress.

My father worked for the Boston and Maine Railroad for many years. He told me that "gum" was first introduced on "Chew, Chew trains." One day a conductor asked, "How old are you little girl?" "I'm five years old," she responded with a beautiful smile. "When will you be six?" "Oh, my mother said when I get off the train." My father was given a "tie" on his retirement. We cut it up and then burned it in our wood burning stove — it kept us warm for a week.

I was going to the Stone Zoo last summer when MDC Officer Paul Pierce stopped me to tell me that my wife had fallen out of the car when I made the turn into the parking lot. "Oh, is that what happened," I exclaimed, "Thank God, I thought I had gone deaf."

After 25 years of faithful service in a large store my cousin Dennis Tully lost a good part of his hearing but that didn't present any problem to the management — they transferred him to the complaint department. I asked my friend Kenny Binding what I could do for a leaking auto radiator. He smiled and said, "Put a pan under it."

A clergyman asked a distinguished stage actor why great crowds came to see and hear him while almost no one came to hear his sermons. "It's simple," responded the actor who was also a parishioner. "I present my act as though it was the 'truth,' while you present your truth as though it was 'fiction.'" I have many cousins who have of late become devout disciples of "St. Mattress" and are confirmed "pillows of the church."

Like my Uncle John Shea, who complained to me recently that it seems to him that the pastor liked flowers because every time he goes to church it's full of either "lilies" or "chrysanthemums." I told my friend, Father John Crispo of St. Margaret's Church in Burlington, that I dropped a hundred dollar bill in the collection basket mistaking it for a one dollar bill. Father John knows that to be overly generous is not one of my virtues so he smiled and said, "Woodchipper, I know it must have been a mistake because for you to put a hundred dollars in the collection would be classified as a 'miracle'."

Congratulations Father John Mark Hannon of St. Patrick's in Stoneham on the Silver Anniversary of your ordination to the priesthood. I have many men of the cloth in my immediate family, two tailors and one fryer at a roadside stand on the beach. One day Howie Murphy of Reading told his son Dean what he did in WW II. After two hours of enumerating the many invasions, battles and victories that he participated in, Dean asked this poignant question, "What did they need all those other soldiers for Dad?"

You can be assured that behind every successful man there is a "woman." She may be his mother, wife or sweetheart who encouraged him when he was about to give up, guided him when he felt lost, helped support him when he was failing, and is now waiting in the "wings" as people stand to give "him" a tremendous ovation. Abraham Lincoln said it well, "All that I am — and all that I hope to be — I owe to my saintly mother."

Hollywood has conditioned most of us to look for "beauty" in face, form and figure in a person. I would (like Lincoln) lose out on all counts, but I sincerely hope that like Abraham Lincoln, I am recognized for my "Malice towards none — Charity for all, and the ability and courage to see the right thing and 'do it.'" I love a mystery story, movie or play but not a mystery dinner. A waiter asked me last week, "How did you find the steak, sir?" "Oh," I replied, "I moved the potato and 'there' it was!!!"

Because of the extreme cold last week, my friend Frank Guilianno of Winchester put on a couple of extra shirts and a big overcoat so that he looked as wide as he was tall. We were walking up the hill to the FDA Lab when he said to me, "I have to be very careful that I don't fall on the icy road." "Don't worry about that Frank," I exclaimed, "your greatest problem is that you may 'roll' down the hill."

Folks, although I kid a lot about my wife Kathy, I must tell you what I know to be true. "For every woman who made a 'fool' out of a man, there are a thousand women who made 'men' out of fools, and I'm one of them. Thank you, Kathy!"

Adam was born in the late afternoon — a little before "Eve." A dentist was sick last week but another dentist "filled" in for him. Almost every trade and profession are joining unions or groups. An idea or slogan for dentists may be "We must all 'pull' together."

My dentist is an expert in his office but has trouble filling 18 cavities on the golf course every Wednesday afternoon.

I have an American-made car that talks to other cars at stop lights. It told one car yesterday, "By the Japanese who made you and the ship Maru that brought you, I'm a better car than you are, 'Hunka Tin!'" "That was a dam fine sermon, Father." "I appreciate the compliment but I must say I don't like your choice of words, Woodchipper!" "Well," I responded, "it was such a dam fine sermon I put a ten dollar bill in the collection." "The hell you did," came the quick reply!"

In the whole history of the world, there has been one thing that man's money could never buy and that's "the wag of a dog's tail." You see folks, they can tell a faker better than we humans can.

The Wilmington Order of Rainbow Girls installed the following: Donna Stevens, Hope; Sonja Martin, Worthy

Associate Advisor: Kim Lee Lambert, Worthy Advisor: Beth Patterson, Charity; Penny Fairhurst, Faith. I remember a song I used to sing, "Faith, Hope and Charity, that's the way to live successfully. How do I know? The Bible tells me so." Oh, if we would go "forward" by turning "back" to the values of years ago. Good luck, young ladies, you and others like you are the "real" reason for "Woodchips."

Retired Persons hear lecture about Abraham Lincoln in Melrose

The February meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons was held recently at the Melrose Highlands Congregational Church on Franklin Street. The speaker was Henry Y. Porter of Reading, who presented his slide talk to many groups in the area the past two years and it has proven to be a popular one of the several he has put together. He has a large collection of pictures of celebrities, autographed and otherwise, from which he can draw on for his material.

Starting in high school, Mr. Porter began collecting these pictures over 60 years ago as a hobby. A graduate of Bentley School (now Bentley College), after a 50-year accounting career in industry, education and town government and as a means to keep himself busy, he decided to share his interest in his hobby through slide talks to interested groups.

All members were invited to this meeting as well as other interested seniors over 50 years of age. If you are a member of the National AARP, you can join our chapter. Contact Ms. Bessie McClellan of 21 Orchard Ave., Wakefield, for more information.

The January meeting was opened by President Signe Bickell, who introduced the Rev. Mark Foreman of the Chapel on Upham Street, who gave the invocation.

The secretary's report was read by Carolyn Norton. Total membership currently is 326 members. William Canady of the Melrose Council on Aging updated members on events available to senior citizens and said assistance in preparing income taxes was available for the elderly, and that Medex is now open for new enrollments. Gladys Jackson mentioned a death of one of the members in December — Gertrude Savage in Albuquerque, N.M. Get well cards were sent to ill and incapacitated members.

Helen Fazio reported that as of this evening, there was a total of 350 members of the chapter, including five new members.

Bill Keating spoke on legislative matters that we should support: reduction of taxes for unearned income for those over 65; income tax credit for families caring for elderly over 75 in the home; and requiring sprinklers and smoke alarms in elderly housing.

Leonard Gebhard, on programs, reported the February meeting was on "Abraham Lincoln"; the March meeting would be a line dance demonstration; and in April, Sturbridge Village will present a slide show on life there in 1830. Foster Ford, on trips, reported plans for a Plymouth to Hyannis train ride, or a trip to Mystic, Conn. Details are to be settled later. A group of 44 members of the Melrose Chapter went on a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

The feature program was introduced by Carolyn Norton. The speaker was Miss Adele Polk, placement counselor at the Red Acre Farm Hearing Dog Center in Stow, where hearing ear dogs are trained. There was a live demonstration of the training of these dogs. Miss Adele Polk brought a live dog with her named "Daisy," a 4-year-old mutt, who with her training, acted better than some humans. The dog was trained to know the sounds of smoke alarms, babies crying, alarm clocks and phone calls and how to alert her mistress or master on these sounds.

all the handicapped. Funds were set up in Denver, Colo., in 1976 to establish the first hearing dog training center. Now there are centers located in Boston (Stow), Denver, Milwaukee and San Francisco.

Hearing impaired people in the number of 15 million live in the U.S. Deafness is an invisible handicap and not understood by

The Red Acre Farm Hearing Dog Center has seven members in its staff plus professional dog trainers and numerous volunteers who all do much for hearing impaired people. It is interesting to note that it costs $3,000 to train a hearing dog. There is fundraising to which interested people can contribute to for the project.

This was a most interesting meeting with the updating of the business meeting and the enlightening information on the treatment of hard-of-hearing senior citizens. The Red Acre Farm and its representative, Miss Adele Polk, along with Daisy, received an acclamation and a vote of thanks for a most interesting program.

Rydell at the Collins Center

Bobby Rydell, teenage idol of the '60s, who had 'em swooning in the aisles with such hits as "Volare" and "Kiss In Time," will bring his musical magic to the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover on Saturday, March 9, at 8 p.m. This rock-and-roll legend will appear with the pop music comedy of The Dovells and Motown favorites, The Marvellettes.

Following the performance, guys and gals will take off their shoes for a "Sock Hop," complete with pizza and soda, in the cafeteria of Andover High School. Musical entertainment will be provided by disc jockeys from WCCM (which is a co-sponsor for the event), who will spin platters made popular during the early 1960s. Concert-goers should dress appropriately (wear your letter sweater) and be ready for the '60s dance contest.

Bobby Rydell is a pop music hero, who, along with Frankie Avalon, Fabian and Bobby Darin, were the dream dates of an entire generation of young girls.

The Marvellettes, the ever-popular, all-female musical group, turned out over a dozen hits for Motown Records in the 1960s. "Please Mr. Postman" and "Beechwood 4-5789" are two of the label's biggest sellers, and The Marvellettes still perform with the same energy that led them to the top of the charts.

Bobby Rydell with The Dovells and The Marvellettes at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, March 9, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $18.50 and $16.50, and are available at the Collins Center Box Office and at the following ticket outlets: Andover Bank, Main Street, Andover and North Andover; and Just For You, 36 Main St., Andover. For tickets and information, call 470-1905, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

'Mrs. Soffel'
'Heaven Help Us'

Mrs. Soffel Starring Diane Keaton, Mel Gibson, Mathew Modine, Edward Herrmann. Directed by Gillian Armstrong. Produced by Edgar Scherick, Scott Rudin, David Nicksay. Written by Ron Nyswaner. Rated PG-13 (violence, adult situations).

Never having thought much of Diane Keaton to begin with, this reviewer's opinion on her lack of acting ability were confirmed after having suffered through The Little Drummer Girl. Now, after having viewed, and thoroughly enjoyed, Mrs. Soffel, it is only fair to rescind that thought and admit that everyone is entitled to a mistake, especially if said mistake is redeemed. After all, Mel Gibson appeared in that bogged down farm flick The River, and he surely has put that behind him and once again proved his worth.

This film is based on a documented case which occurred in 1901. Mrs. Soffel, wife of the warden (Edward Herrmann) of the Allegheny County Jail in Pittsburgh, aided the escape of two convicted murderers, the Biddle brothers, and left behind her children and husband to follow them.

There is more here, however, than meets the eye. And, thanks to director Gillian Armstrong's perception, a story that could have been as dull as dish water is brought to life through careful attention to detail. The jail itself is a cold and imposing structure that typifies Soffel's existence. She is trapped by the building, a loveless marriage and the stifling constraints of a Victorian society.

Aussie Armstrong, filming her first picture in America, managed to convey Soffel's oppression not only through her bleak surroundings, but through an imaginative use of light. Until Soffel's and the Biddle's escape, the picture is an array of greys, blues and black. But after their grasp at freedom, the film is dominated by brilliant, white light reflected from snow, and great expanses of land. This is quite an effective trick from Armstrong, whose first film was the much acclaimed My Brilliant Career. The only problem with Armstrong is that despite her exacting authenticity and detail, she lacks economy, and Mrs. Soffel suffers for that during the first half of the film.

Gibson and Keaton work well together, and manage the near impossible, they enact a truly sensual and tender love scene without removing their clothes. Mathew Modine, as the younger Biddle, and Herrmann enhance the picture with their superior performances. Actually, the film's only flaw is that it drags somewhat. But, considering the other offerings of the season, that isn't a capital offense.

Heaven Help Us Starring Donald Sutherland, John Heard, Mary Stuart Masterson, Kevin Dillon, Malcolm Danare, Andrew McCarthy. Directed by Michael Dinner. Produced by Dan Wigutow, Mark Carliner. Written by Charles Purpura. Rated R (violence, profanity).

Since most movies these days are aimed at the Clearasil crowd, it is truly amazing when one of these coming of age films is above the usual sex-in-the-sand stuff we have become accustomed to. And, while Heaven Help Us does fall into some of the stereotypical traps of the genre, it still manages to remain quite entertaining without assaulting our intelligence.

It is the parochial school veterans who should get a real hoot out of this flick, as director Michael Dinner captured the attitudes and mores prevalent in private, catholic schools in the mid-sixties, including the tough-as-nails brothers. Actually, campy as some of the scenes get, Dinner is right on the mark in most cases, as physical punishment and a militaristic attitude was, and may still be, prevalent at many a catholic school. However, the unpleasant scholastic atmosphere is softened by script writers with a keen sense of humor.

The plot is not very different from many in this genre. New boy, Andrew McCarthy (Class), has trouble adjusting to new school, strict administrators, and "the gang." It is also not too difficult to figure out who will get the nice girl (Mary Stuart Masterson) who is not as cool and tough as she would like people to think. Surprises come not in the form of plot, but in the acting, which is consistently good, and the laughs, which are consistent. Also, teen heart throb fans will be interested to note that Kevin Dillon, Matt's brother, appears in one of the leading roles.

POEM

"THANK HEAVEN FOR LITTLE BOYS"

A cyclone hit the bedroom, clothes are on the floor. Larry Bird's poster is taped to the closet door.

The living room chairs and sofa are sagging with wear. The refrigerator shelves are almost always bare.

The bathroom is always busy, there's water everywhere. The time spent in the shower, just isn't fair.

Our house is full of gloves and balls and never ending noise. I know you must have guessed it, we have a family of "boys."

EMI presents award of appreciation in Stoneham

East Middlesex Industries (EMI), an Employment, Training and Placement Center in Stoneham has presented The Friendly Ice Cream Corporation with an award of appreciation at its recent Open House.

EMI has been working with Friendly's since July of 1983 when EMI was trying to place four individuals who had successfully completed their maintenance training program. At this time Friendly's of Stoneham, under the management of Bob Hazelton, decided to employ two of these individuals, one as a part-time maintenance worker and the other as a part-time cleaner.

After experiencing success with these placements, Bob Hazelton told the EMI

Placement Specialist of possible job openings in their Saugus branch. In February of 1984 EMI was able to set up a Community and Training program at this branch under the management of Jim Boughman for two other individuals. After a one-month assessment period, the Saugus Friendly's hired one participant as a "Service Worker." At this time the Placement Specialist met Ron Miskiewicz, District Manager, who became very interested in our Community, Assessment and Training Program for a few of his District Restaurant locations. Within the next few months EMI worked with the Woburn, Reading, and Burlington Friendly's to assess four individuals in different job areas. This ended up in offering three of these individuals jobs. At present they are participants of this program as employees at the following Friend locations: 1 Maintenance Worker in Stoneham; 1 Service Worker in Saugus; 1 Maintenance Worker in Woburn, 1 Guest Check Receiver in Reading; 1 Dishwasher in Burlington.

As you can see, the Friendly Ice Cream Corporation has helped the EMI program grow successfully through the last year. The opportunities and success that have been experienced would not have been possible without the supportive work environment that the Friendly Staff have provided.

Demand for trained dental assistants will skyrocket this year

The demand for trained Dental Assistants will skyrocket in Massachusetts this year as a new regulation takes effect, requiring all Dental Assistants who perform "intraoral procedures" or take X-Rays to be certified. Roughly 30 other states also require such certification or registered credentials.

Job prospects are excellent. The pool of qualified Dental Assistants has declined for years, as has enrollment in Massachusetts programs.

The ten-month Whittier Regional Vocational Technical High School, postsecondary program prepares adult students for the certification exam while exposing them to different concentrations in the field.

Dental Assisting candidates must be high school graduates (or seniors) or have a G.E.D. certificate. Residents of a Massachusetts community that does not offer this program may also apply to Whittier. Financial Aid is available to eligible students.

A special pre-entrance exam session is scheduled for February 27 for all allied health program applicants. To make a reservation or acquire enrollment information, telephone the school at 373-4101, ext. 17.

"I Learned More Than I Thought I Would." ATI FACULTY "Go(es) All Out For The Student."

Recently we got these comments from several recent graduates of ATI's programs.

Chris McHugh (Electronics) writes:
"I enrolled in ATI's Computer Electronics program to learn about electronics and their practical application. I have received a very good understanding of electronics and computer internals."

"In addition, the services offered by ATI are excellent: (1) learned a lot about job finding, interviewing and reading down concrete leads. (2) am going to miss ATI and will always give the school a good recommendation."
Gil Pento (Electronics) writes:
"I learned more than I thought I would, (and) I wish I could have had more time. Russo (the teacher), has a great way to relate to the students, which helps us to understand better. I love it (ATI Services). They go all out for the students and show you how to have more confidence in yourself."

Finally, Jim Stallings (Refrigeration & Air Conditioning) writes:
"I got a lot out of this course. I feel good about what I learned here and if I had to do it again I would!"

By William Pacino

The tradition of great English mystery plays continues at the Merrimack Repertory Theatre as Simon Gray's funny "Stage Struck" opens on February 22. The three week run, through March 10, is the second production to be staged at MRT's new theatre in Liberty Hall, part of the recently renovated Lowell Memorial Auditorium.

This production of "Stage Struck", which was written in 1979, marks the play's New England premiere. Simon Gray, author of "Butley", "Otherwise Engaged" and "Quatermain's Terms", has created a classic British mystery with a twisting plot, crisp dialogue and complex characters that takes its place alongside two earlier MRT hits of the same genre, "Sleuth" and "The Mousetrap".

Performances are Monday, Wednesday through Saturday at 8 PM, Sunday at 4 PM, with a matinee Wednesday, Feb. 27 at 2 PM. Tickets are $8 to $14 depending upon performance. For information and reservations, phone the box office at 454-3926. The theatre is located at 50 East Merrimack Street, Lowell.

MUSEUMS:

Isabella Stewart Gardiner - An exhibit of American Impressionist pastels, watercolors and oils belonging to Isabella Stewart Gardiner will open at the Gardiner Museum on Feb. 5 and run through April. The museum is open Wednesday through Sunday 12 to 5 and Tuesday 12-9. A donation of $2 is suggested.

In addition to such notable works as Childe Hassam's "New York Blizzard", Dennis Bunker's "Brook at Medfield", and Thomas Dewing's "Lady in Yellow", the exhibit will draw on materials from the museum's archives, including photographs of several of the artists represented.

In the 1880's American artists were arriving in Europe in droves to study at academies such as the popular Academie Julian in Paris. There many of them were introduced to Impressionism for the first time. The young Americans readily adopted the Impressionists' interest in light, atmosphere and a bright palette, but due to their rather conservative academic training many were unable to completely give up a dependency on line and modeling.

Many of the American artists supported themselves on their return to the States by teaching in the art schools that were flourishing in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. Thus, the influence of this hybrid Impressionist style was widespread and by the end of the 19th century had become the leading style of painting in America.

Museum of Our National Heritage - Benjamin Franklin, printer, author, statesman, inventor, diplomat, scientist, and the best known American of his day, will be the subject of a year-long exhibit highlighting his remarkable life and contributions to American society. "Useful Knowledge and Public Good: Dr. Franklin Considered" opens Sunday, Feb. 17 and continues through Feb. 23, 1986, at the Museum of Our National Heritage. Concentrating on Franklin as a man both of his time and ahead of it, the exhibition will emphasize his accomplishments in the fields of science, communications, and community improvement.

In keeping with Franklin's 18th-century commitment to learning by experience, visitors he performed. Another participatory exhibit includes a chance to play the musical glasses that fascinated Franklin. Located at 33 Marrett Rd., Lexington, the museum is open seven days a week, with free admission and parking. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 AM to 4 PM; Sunday, noon to 5 PM.

Gloucester on Saturday, February 16th from 7 to 10 PM. The Great Hall of the Castle will be filled with love lanterns and the fragrant scents of crushed herbs in rosewater. Foods of love, such as pomegranates, pears (the favorite of Venus), love cakes and other tempting morsels will be available as well as potent potions of love.

Medieval games of love, such as Lovers by Lot and Queen Anne, will be played periodically in the Great Hall. Guests can gain clues as to the identity of their true love by taking part in love divinations as practiced in the Middle Ages.

The Castle Travelling Troupe will perform a version of a favorite medieval love story, "Tristram and Isolde". Musicians will play love music of the period, and Cupid will put in an appearance.

Admission to A Medieval Eve is $4 for adults and $2 for children. For additional information, call 283-2080.

From a medieval way of divining who your true love is to a British suspense thriller, from Benj. Franklin to the advent of American Impressionism, COMING ATTRACTIONS has got your number. But our search each week for events of interest to all is not all-inclusive and we could use your help in "divining" some new topics. If you know of such, write, care of this local newspaper, and give us the word. Museums will always be our friends, but we really long for something to do outside.

will have an opportunity to learn for themselves the principles that Benjamin Franklin investigated by trying some of the actual experiments in mathematics and science that

Hammond Castle Museum - Join knights, damsels, rogues and fools in a medieval celebration of Valentine's Day. A Medieval Eve will be held at Hammond Castle Museum in

Seat belts - the best defense

The drunk driver and winter road conditions - a deadly combination! "Protect yourselves and others by wearing your seat belts all the time and, of course, driving defensively. Seat belts reduce the risk of death by as much as 50 percent and the likelihood of serious injury by at least 65 percent! It's the right thing to do," says Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey.

ROVING From S-1

something, well, soft, like a plastic bag full of leaves or old rags...

My date said, "Somebody must've left something in the way."

I tried backing the car up one more time. The car came to a stop at roughly the same spot for a third time.

I threw the car into park. "I'm getting out to see what it is."

I opened the door, glanced behind the car. The parking lights continued to light up the area in red. I thought I saw a clump of what appeared to be rags behind the rear tire. I got out to make a closer inspection.

As I leaned over the rear of the car, the clump twitched. I heard a faint, throaty sound. A moan, it sounded like. My heart leapt into my throat. My God, I thought, that's a person!

I hopped back into the front seat. Observing that I had become visibly shaken, my date quickly asked, "What's wrong?"

"There's somebody out there!" I snapped. I recalled a strong stench of cheap liquor permeating the inside of the alcove. "He looks like an old drunk. And I almost ran him over! Can you imagine what could've happened if I'd just gunned the car to get over that soft clump without getting out to look?"

The thought made my heart pound a little faster. She said, "What do you want to do?"

"I'll get back out and see if I can get him to move," I replied, with the door already ajar.

I returned a moment later. I told her, "I tried shaking him, but he didn't budge."

"Maybe you should call the police."

The police would never respond to a call that a drunk was asleep in an alley. I glimpsed over the front hood. The nose of my car stuck out a couple of feet too far, but it was definitely out of the way of cars using the alley.

"We'll just leave the car here," I said. "He'll be O.K."

We went to the concert, then about three hours later headed back to the car. The temperature felt about 10 degrees colder than when we had arrived. As we approached the parking space, we wondered aloud if the drunk was still asleep under our car.

We discovered that he was. My date climbed into the driver's side and slid across the seat. I got in behind her and started the car. As we waited for the engine to warm, I decided to check on the drunk again.

His clothes were tattered, filthy; his hair was caked with greyish dust, probably from the dirty concrete floor. His arms were folded and tucked tightly under each other. All I could see for a face was a mass of stubbly black hair that blended into blackened, leathery skin around his eye sockets. His eyes remained closed. I was struck with an eerie feeling, watching this old man sleeping in a fetal position, huddled beneath my car. It was hard to tell if he was

Pianist James Barbagallo to perform at Collins Center

James Barbagallo, one of the most sought-after and accomplished young pianists of the decade, will bring his entertaining charm and musical ability to Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts for a recital on Friday, Feb. 15 at 8 p.m.

An American medalist of the Seventh Tchaikovsky International Piano Competition, Barbagallo was singled out as a performer with "an easy command and musical intelligence" that clearly captivates an audience.

As a pupil of the Julliard School, Barbagallo won such top awards as the Olga Samaroff Prize, the Gina Bachauer scholarship and the Julliard William Petschek Piano Debut Recital. ## Sons of Italy assists in Telethon

The Sons of Italy played a key role in the 1985 United Cerebral Palsy "Weekend with the Stars" on January 12th and 13th. The telethon was hosted nationally by John Ritter and in the Boston area Co-Host Jan Holmes and Frank Avruch of channel 5 held the Sunday Open House, Ted O'Brien, Susan Wornick and Jim Boyd reporting the days events.

All special events, solicitations and canister drives were all part of a fundraising effort by the Massachusetts Sons of Italy for United Cerebral Palsy. The overall amount collected from Sons of Italy amounted to $35,000.00 and could exceed that figure as the final tallies are counted. Included in this total is $23,000.00 which was raised from the Phonathon held this past October and November for three consecutive Sundays. The Charity Commission under the direction of Chairman Rose Perri of Watertown and volunteers around the state, manned the phones at Boston University for pledges. Sons of Italy chairman for United Cerebral Palsy, State Trustee Richard Guida of Stoneham asleep or dead. He finally moved slightly, and I felt relieved.

Roving From S-16

I got back in the car. We pulled away slowly. A hundred feet or so up the alley I noticed a large cardboard box — it may have once contained a refrigerator or a stove — set against the back of one of the buildings. I spotted what looked like a pair of feet protruding from the open end of the box, which was directly below a hot air vent that must have come from one of the restaurants on Boylston Street. I stopped the car suddenly, hopped out.

"Where are you going?" my date asked. Her tone was somewhat upset, confused.

"Relax," I assured her, "I'll be right back."

I walked over to the box, cautiously leaned over and glanced inside. There was another drunk, curled up in a ball, trying to keep warm from the hot air vent, sound asleep. The vent blew out a steady stream of billowy white puffs of steam.

I went back to the car, and my date and I headed back to our homes on the North Shore. I wasn't in a frame of mind to attempt to understand the moral and social ramifications of what I'd just seen. I was too cold and tired for that. All that came to mind, strangely, was a quote from Virginia Woolf, one that describes coming face to face with life's adversities and then failing. That was the only way I was able to explain away what I'd experienced in the alleyway. These old men were just two more of life's victims, men who failed at crossing life's "puddles" when they came to them. Instead they fell, never to come up again.

I — no, we — returned home feeling pretty damned lucky indeed.

T.V. PERSONALITY Ronnie Klemmer congratulating Chairman Richard Guida of Stoneham for the successful role that the Massachusetts Sons of Italy played in the United Cerebral Palsy Telethon. Mr. Guida is a state officer. He was elected as State Trustee in the 1982 election at the 69th convention held in New York. He is completing his first term of office in June and his plans are to run for the office of State Treasurer at the annual convention that will be held in Boston at the Park Plaza in June.

PRESIDENT OF THE NORTH Middlesex Mixed Lodge, Rose Storella of Wakefield, shown presenting T.V. personality Ronnie Klemmer from Channel 5 a check on behalf of her lodge to benefit the United Cerebral Palsy, a worthy cause to help people live their lives by their abilities, rather than their disabilities. At left, Al Chiulli, Mrs. Storella, State President of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Henry Frissora of Belmont, Ronnie Klemmer and State Trustee Richard Guida of Stoneham, who was the general chairman for the Sons of Italy Fundraiser to help United Cerebral Palsy.

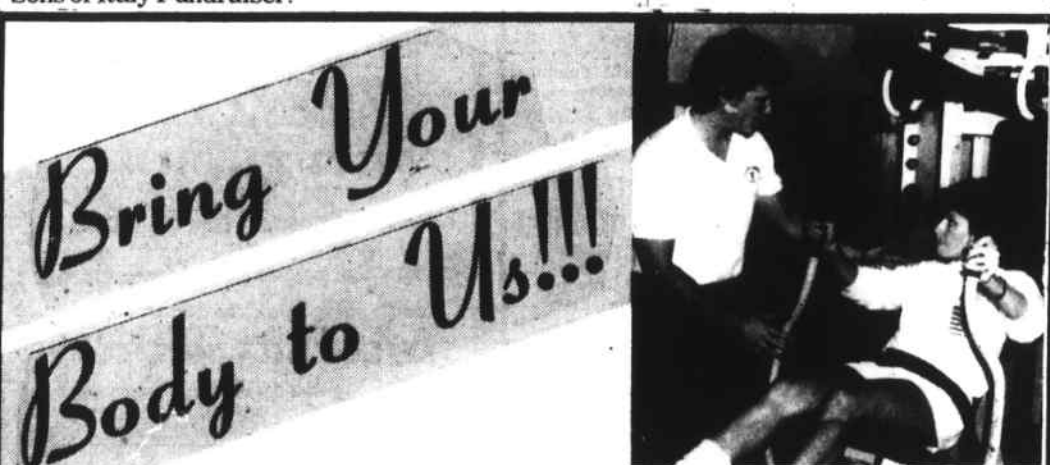

diligently co-ordinated all the details which attributed to the success of the Sons of Italy's involvement with the 1985 Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

The three remote site locations and events held at the Watertown, Lawrence and North Middlesex Mixed Lodge (at Woburn), Order Sons of Italy, were video taped and aired on Channel 5 on Sunday with T.V. Personality from Channel 5, Ronnie Klemmer. Brunch was continuously served at these Lodge homes from 8:30 A.M. through 2:00 P.M. accommodating a flowing in and out crowd of over 200 who came to support this important cause.

At 5:00 P.M. State President Henry Frissora, Jr. of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts presented a check live on Channel 5 during an interview by Co-host Jan Holmes. Mr. Frissora of Belmont expressed his enthusiasm for being a part of this wonderful cause which reflects the ability of all Sons of Italy members in performing a united task to the fullest. Chairman Guida was with State President during the interview.

MARY BENULLO of the Woburn Ladies Lodge, Order Sons of Italy, making a personal donation to T.V. personality Ronnie Klemmer of Channel 5 during a brunch held at the Woburn Sons of Italy by the North Middlesex Mixed Lodge of Stoneham to benefit United Cerebral Palsy. Volunteers from the Woburn Ladies Lodge were on hand to help this worthy cause. On left is President Esther Mazza of the Ladies Lodge, State President Henry Frissora of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Order Sons of Italy, Ms. Benullo, T.V. personality Ronnie Klemmer and Richard Guida, chairman of the Sons of Italy Fundraiser.
